School History

In 1855 Mr. McSheery came from the east and taught the first school in New Waverly. There was no school house so a room in the hotel was used. One year later John A. Forgey built the first school house and installed the first bell in Miami Township. Mr. T. W. Thomas was the first teacher in this building.

In 1872 a two story building was erected at the site of the present school building. This was used until 1899 when a seven room building was erected.

In 1894 Jacob Ludders arranged for a two year high school course in connection with the eight grades. In 1908 the high school was extended to a four year course and in 1921-22 the present building was erected.

The bell on the top of the building has pealed out its mellow tones four score and two years and seems ready for many more. It is the bane of tardy pupils, but is a pleasant memory to those who have attended these portals of learning.

CLASS PROPHECY

"It has many possibilities and grand inspirations," so the editor of the Indianapolis Star told me, as he sent me off on a month's trip, a wild goose chase, it seemed to me. It was my vacation, yet I was only to scour the country side looking for some interesting people whom he could use in his paper, and that I might use in a new column that he was attempting to edit.

It was only a half-formed plan which sent me back to the old home town on my quest. How strange it seemed to be back after eleven years' absence! Still it was the same to the extent of many new faces and a few new buildings.

The first person whom I thought would still be around was my old girl friend Nelle. I drove out to the Toothman residence, and as I neared the drive I saw several angel-faced youngsters making mud pies. Many hours later when I drove away from the Toothman's my mind was full of the merits of Bruce, Gary, Bonnie and Twili, which had been the main topic of my visit. Here was one family that would go toward the new column.

Next I went to the Kline Insurance Company to see how Charles was making out in his business. His secretary started to tell me that her employer was out, but stopped in amazement when she recognized her former classmate. Agnes Howell had me wait until Charles came, and then we three had quite a visit until we were interrupted by some prospective customer. As I left the building I wondered if it wasn't going to run true to form, "She married her boss." At least it certainly looked like it.

I made a hurried trip to Chicago, hoping that I should not be too late. My fears were vanquished as I entered the lobby of the Hotel Commodore and saw Paul Scherer examining the structure of that palatial building. Soon I had waylaid him and learned that he was assistant buyer for some large corporation in Cincinnati, and he had come to Chicago to select new merchandise. He looked for a promotion to head-buyer in a few months as the head-buyer was to become a member of the board.

I planned to go back to Logansport, but I thought that since several of my classmates were in Fort Wayne I might just as well stop there, so as not to make an extra trip. Frances Wilson had just arrived at her apartment from her day's work. Frances worked as assistant in a well-known doctor's office. It looked as if he meant to keep her with him as long as he could or else the diamond was deceiving. Elbert Balsbaugh was working, or had been working, as personal secretary to the Mayor's daughter, but he had given it up to become her nervous groom in a week's time. It seemed as if both had accomplished much since leaving their old home town and school.

The next day I went to the GE and saw working side by side two great scientists of the day. The head-electrician, John Henson, and the famous scientist who had given to the world many time-saving devices, Charles Barker, were busy trying to work out some new ideas that they had concocted.

Situated in Akron, Ohio, as head of the schools, was a tall stately lady who was extremely busy, but stopped long enough to show me the schools she superintended. Christina Wilson had a task that she greatly loved—watching over and being with school children of all ages.

There was only one girl left and I could not see her as she was in Paris studying under a great designer. Patricia Melton was rapidly becoming known among the women high up in designing dresses. We often heard from her, but her life was so busy that she seldom saw any of her classmates.

Then, on to Detroit to see the famous left-hand pitcher, Paul Michael bring his team home to glory and fame. His name was riding high in the stars as one of the most famous pitchers ever known. No need to wish him luck for he had that and more, for sitting in the players box was a pretty lady with a small boy playing with a baseball already following in his father's footsteps.

After wandering from one place to another, I finally arrived safely at the office with a lot of data for the editor. It had been a happy, happy vacation for me; the most pleasant memory of it all was the fact that the class of 1940 was rapidly nearing the top, and in ten years more there would be several of them who would be acclaimed by millions as the greatest of their time.

SENIORS HISTORY

Four eventful years ago, we the class of 1940, attained the ninth link in our chain of education. A few of our students left to continue in other schools, but their ranks have been replaced.

Until 1936 we were pupils of the grades, but have since entered High School Classes. Although our classes were happy ones, we are now experiencing our best times. We have entered upon our quest for higher education.

Those of our ranks, carrying us through the first year were, Agnes Howell, President; Fred List, Vice President; Paul Scherer, Secretary, and Frances Wilson, Treasurer. The sponsor of our Freshie year was Mr. A. G. Shull.

In 1937 we reached the tenth link in our chain of education, yet we were still looked down upon by the more "jovial and dignified." During the year we were headed by Charles Barker, President; Charles Kline, Vice President; Frances Wilson, Secretary, and Elbert Balsbaugh, Treasurer, with Mr. Dallas Pearsey as sponsor.

In 1938 quite a change was made in our lives. We were now beginning to feel "big enough" to "look down" upon the others and were enjoying the privilege immensely. This year we were led in activities by Paul Scherer, President; Elbert Balsbaugh, Vice President; Nelle Wilson, Secretary; Patricia Melton, Treasurer. Our sponsor was Miss Mable Meeks. Also during the year we took the seniors on a trip to Northern Indiana. We presented "Among the Stars," as our Class play.

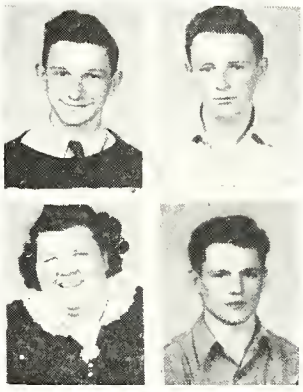
During the year of 1939-40 we lost Paul Dunsizer, one of our best liked classmates. This year we have had more than our share of tests. Our class officers are Paul Scherer, President; Charles Kline, Vice President; Nelle Wilson, Secretary, and John Henson, Treasurer. Our sponsor is Mrs. Ruth Bolton.

During our years in high school we furnished talent for operettas, sextettes and trios. We have furnished the majority of basket ball players during the years, and also have furnished one of the yell leaders.

JUNIORS

First Row: James Miller, John Shepler.

Second Row: John Rhoades, Frances Leedy.



First Row: Victor Smith, James Myers.

Second Row: Helen Bowman, Perry Haynes.

History of the Junior Class

In the year nineteen thirty-seven, the juniors of this year entered high school with eleven members. Their work and actions during their freshman year showed they were really growing up. Near the end of the year they lost two members, leaving only nine. Miss Dubois was their sponsor.

In nineteen thirty-eight the same nine entered school as sophomores. Near the end of year '38 they lost another member of their class leaving only eight members to carry on their class name. Mr. Dinn was the sponsor.

In the year of nineteen thirty-nine the same eight entered as jolly juniors. Mr. Callane is sponsoring the class. They are doing good work and are making a name for their class in the history of New Waverly High School.

The class officers for the year were: President, James Miller; Vice President, John Shepler; Secretary, Frances Leedy; Treasurer, John Rhoades.

Lowell Applegate Richard Lowe

Mary Alice Lutz Ellen Flory

Ruth Kline Betty Parish

SOPHOMORES

The Sophomores of nineteen hundred and thirty-nine are striving and working hard to climb the ladder of life. All are hoping to reach the goal in years to come.

Several of the girls and boys are interested in music and helped in giving the operetta.

The following are leading the class this year: President, Ellen Flory; Vice President, Robert Bailey; Secretary, Betty Parish; Treasurer, Richard Lowe. Mr. I. E. Dinn is sponsoring the class.

Marie Howell Eileen Bowman

Mary King Raymond Louthain

Lewis Wilson Robert Bailey

FRESHMEN

Mary Ellen Lynas, Secretary

Hollis Black, Vice President

Elsie Wilson

Robert Ditton, Treasurer

Mary Agnes Cox

Franklin Melton, President

The Freshmen by their loyalty, dependability and co-operation have proved a valuable asset to the school. They are all taking part in different school activities. All of the girls are in music. All the boys are on the basketball team. Sponsor: Mr. Oldridge.

Our class of 1940 has published the fourth annual of the New Waverly School.

1924—Printed Annual "THE VIOLET".
1938—Mimeographed "WAVELET".
1939—Mimeographed "WAVELET".
1940—Second Printed Annual "WAVELET".

We wish to thank everyone that has helped us in any way to make this annual a success.

Orchestra

New Waverly is very proud of its beginning Orchestra. Although it is not a large organization, yet through earnest effort the members master their music. A school organization can function properly only as it is supported. Let's get behind this organization and boost.

The great need now is that parents get behind their children and urge them to study some kind of an orchestral instrument.

But above all, parents, buy a good instrument for the boy or girl and back the child 100 per cent in his undertaking. There is a great amount of latent talent in the school which can be uncovered with your support.

There is a trite, but true saying, that a chain is just as strong as its weakest link. Help us build for strength.

First Row: Bass drum, John Henson; Snare drum, Robert Bailey; Violins, Margaret Howell, Agnes Howell, Eileen Bowman; Pianist, Marie Howell.

We think that our paper has been a success.

New Waverly Conservation Club

On November 28, 1939 at the New Waverly High School Building, a club to be known as the New Waverly Conservation Club was organized, with 15 charter members.

The following officers were chosen to act for 90 days, after which time permanent officers are to be chosen: President, Kenneth Callane; Vice-President, Charles W. Scott; Secretary and Treasurer, C. N. Melton; Delegate at Large, Chester Henson; Alternate Delegate, G. L. Leonard.

The purpose of this club is to:

1. Promote wild life welfare.
2. Cooperation of sportsmen and landowners.
3. Education of sportsmen.

The State Game Wardens, Brammer and Bartock, gave the members some very important facts concerning licenses, trapping and hunting.

The Club is now looking for the best possible location for a fish hatchery and club house which they are planning to build in the near future.

Message From The Parent-Teacher Association

The Congress Parent-Teacher Association is the functioning unit of the national organization. Its membership consists of parents, teachers, and other adults interested in the welfare of children and youth.

Parent-Teacher Associations are organizing in both urban and rural communities to coordinate the work and interests of home, school and community. The Parent-Teacher Program is sufficiently flexible to meet the interests and problems of the various consolidated schools as found in urban and rural communities.

New Waverly Parent-Teacher Association was organized just before school was out, 1938-39, and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Lynas; Vice President, Mrs. Miller; Secretary, Mrs. Bolton; Treasurer, Mrs. Long.

Mrs. Marcellus Flory is our program chairman and other committees were appointed September 28, 1939.

The two major objectives of P. T. A. are:

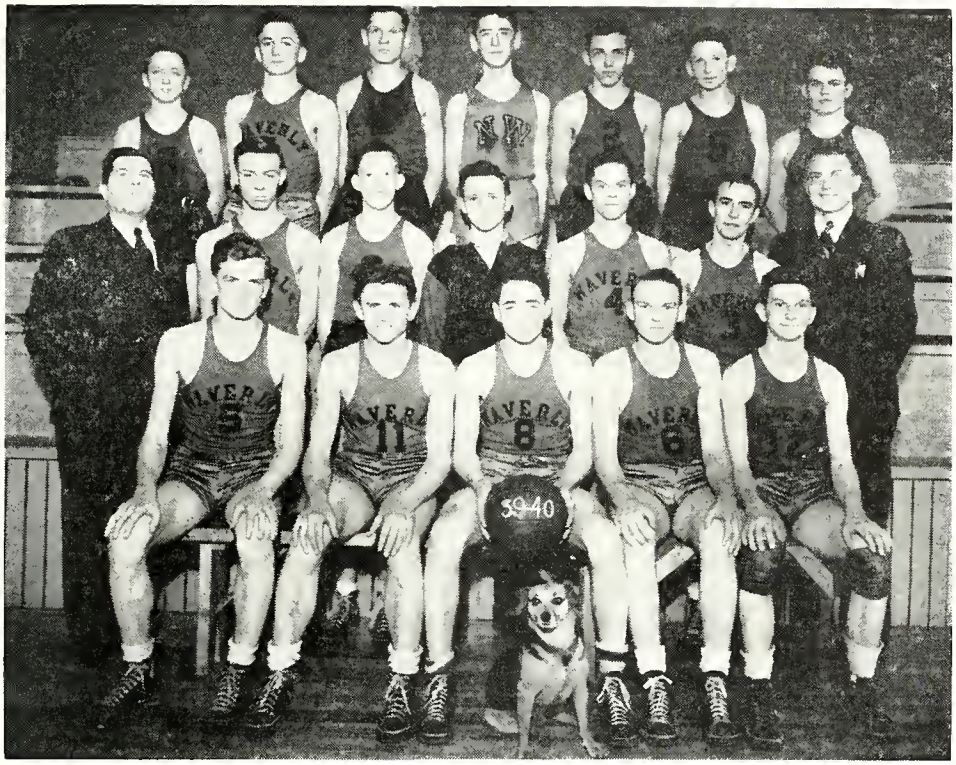
1. To promote welfare of children and youth in Home, School, Church and Community.

2. To bring closer relation between the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate in child training.

"Professor How Could You." This three act comedy was given by members of the New Waverly P. T. A.

An evening of wholesome fun was the reward of those who came to see how the professor chose his wife.

The cast, as you met them on January 30, is as follows: Grandpa Perry, Kenneth Black; Boggins, G. H. Pritchett; Grandma Perry, Eleanor Williams; Vicky Randolph, Ruth Bolton; John Appleby, Henry Balsbaugh; Keats Perry, John Castle; Priscilla Morley, Beulah Dinn; Valeria Whiteman, Roberta Kitchall; Tootsie Bean, Josephine Black; Butcher Boy, Marcellus Flory; Sponsor, Mrs. Oldridge.



THE SQUAD

The squad of New Waverly this year was a "scrappy bunch," but they were hit by old man hard luck.

The squad was composed of sixteen players. Five of the squad leave this year, but there is promise for another swell team next year, and for many years to come.

All players went to the tournament. Those certified were: Elbert Balsbaugh, Charles Barker, Charles Kline, John Henson, Victor Smith, Lowell Applegate, Robert Bailey, Hollis Black, John Rhoades, Paul Scherer, Franklin Melton and Richard Lowe.

The cheerleaders were selected this year by the entire assembly.

They were Agnes Howell, right and Mary Ellen Lynas, left.

They gave team spirit in many hard fought battles. Mary Ellen was new to the job, but soon learned from Agnes and they are well matched.

HOME ECONOMICS

We think we have a very fine Home Economics Department. Our sewing room is cozy and home like and our kitchen is modern and convenient. Every high school girl should some time take Home Economics. We learn not only the fundamentals of cooking and sewing, but also the principles of home making and social relations. Mrs. Bolton is our Home Economics teacher.

SHOP CLASS

This year in the Industrial Arts Department they have worked out a new plan, called the Unit plan:

Unit One, Woodwork.
Unit Two, Mechanical Drawing.
Unit Three, Electricity and Principle Involved.
Unit Four, Sheet Metal.
Unit Five, Cement.
Unit Six, Building and Construction.
Unit Seven, Carpentering.

In this Unit plan each boy progresses at his own speed, and is judged by his progress as well as the quality and quantity of work completed.

Junior-Senior Trip

The Juniors and Seniors went on a trip April 11th and 12th, 1940. The class agreed that they would go to southern Indiana. And also that Mr. Murphy would drive the bus on the trip.

They left Peru early in the morning of the 11th; taking State Road 31 into Indianapolis. They stopped at the present capitol going through the Capitol Building and Butler College. After a short stay at Indianapolis, they took State Road 31 down to Jeffersonville, going through Edinburgh and different cities on the way, including a stop at Mr. Eugene Canady's home at Laurel. At Jeffersonville they went through the State Reformatory.

From Jeffersonville they crossed to New Albany. There they stopped for a short time at the home of Mr. Dallas Pearsy, former coach of New Waverly. They reached Wyandotte Cave before night where in a near-by woods they had a weiner roast.

After the weiner roast, they went down to the former state capitol, Corydon where they remained for the night. There they saw the Constitutional Elm.

In the morning they journeyed to Santa Claus and also stopped to see the Nancy Hanks Lincoln Memorial. Their next stop was at Vincennes, the old state capitol. Leaving Vincennes, they took State Road 41 going through Dugger and Sullivan to stop at Terre Haute for lunch.

After dinner they took State Road 40 through Putnamville where they stopped and went through the Boys' Reformatory. From there, they went on to Indianapolis, taking State Road 31 into Peru, and arriving home late in the night.

The Senior Class Play, 1940

The Senior Class of New Waverly High School presented the play "Meet Uncle Sally" at the New Waverly auditorium on April 4 and 5, 1940.

The cast was as follows:

Ben Blayne—a young lawyer	John Henson
Betty Blayne——his sister	Agnes Howell
Jenny—a Swede cook	Frances Wilson
Sally Sherwood, a college student	Patricia Melton
Bob Durant—Betty's fiance	Charles Kline
Snorkins—a Cockney butler	Paul Scherer
Elaine Durant—Ben's fiancee	Mary King
Aunt Dorinda—Bob and Elaine's aunt	Nelle Wilson
Dr. Jimmy Snodgrass—an osteopath	Charles Barker
Miss Muggs—Dean of Ketcham College	Christina Wilson
Reverend Wright—a preacher	Paul Michaels
William Hawkins—Ben and Betty's uncle	Elbert Balsbaugh
Director	Mrs. Ruth Bolton

Ben and Betty are expecting their rich Uncle Bill from Oklahoma. They invited Bob and Elaine Durant and their Aunt Dorinda to dinner. Ben is in love with Elaine, and Betty is in love with Bob and they hope that the rich uncle will cause the gold digging Aunt Dorinda to consent to their marriages. Snorkins, a butler, is employed to properly impress Aunt Dorinda.

At the last moment Uncle Bill wires that he has been detained, and a cousin, Sally Sherwood, who has skipped college is forced to play the role of Uncle Bill. Things really begin to happen. Aunt Dorinda makes love to Uncle Sally and insists that they be married at once. Ben and Betty naturally oppose such a marriage and Bob and Elaine become offended and quarrel with Ben and Betty. Jenny, the Swede cook, learns that Sally is an imposter and has to be bought off. So much trouble gives Ben a headache and Dr. Snodgrass, the osteopath, arrives to give him a treatment, but mistakes his patient to be Uncle Sally. Poor Uncle Sally! And then Aunt Dorinda arrives with the minister! This is too much for Uncle Sally and she passes out.

CYNTHIA'S STRATEGY

Cynthia and Stanley are very much in love, but Cynthia's father objects to Stanley because he has had some business differences with Stanley's father.

Stanley braves Mr. Adams' anger and comes to call on Cynthia and Mr. Adams ejects him from the house.

Cynthia conducts a scheme to outwit her father by having Stanley come to the house and pose as Clara Wright, one of her friends from Chicago, whom her parents have never met.

Stanley cleverly vamps Mr. Adams who is flattered by the attentions of this psuedo young lady. Mrs. Adams, however, does not share her husband's interest in their guest, and shows her disapproval of his attitude toward this supposed girl friend of Cynthia's.

Mrs. Adams inopportunely enters just as Mr. Adams is complying with Clara's request for a good-night kiss. Before Mr. Adams can attempt to explain this awkward situation, Stanley removes his wig and tells Mrs. Adams that the whole affair was planned by Cynthia, her father and himself as a little joke on her, to celebrate his engagement to Cynthia. Stanley appeals to Mr. Adams to verify his statement. As he can see no other way out of the predicament, Mr. Adams is forced to accept the situation. Cynthia turns to her father and says, "You see Dad we were very successful with our little strategy."

Mr. Adams replies dryly, "Yes, I see we were."

The cast includes:

Cynthia May Adams	Agnes Howell
Smith Stanley Young	Elbert Balsbaugh
Eugene Stephen Adams	John Henson
Adelaide Susan Adams	Ruth Kline

MARGIE GOES MODERN

The Girls of Bowers Institute are competing for the coveted Cecilian Medal, which is awarded each year, to the best sketch. Margie, who is a student at the Institute has dreamed of winning the medal for a secret reason. The Trustees, who award the Medal, know Margie, who despairs, and when asked the reason, she confides to the girls that she is a neice of the Miss Bowers, who endowed the Institute with the half of her fortune with the proviso that the remaining half is to go to her should she win the Cecilian Medal before her twenty-first birthday. Should she fail, all of the fortune would go to the Institute. The girls are anxious to help Margie and decide upon a plan to outwit the trustees.

The plan is successful and Margie wins the Cecilian Medal.

The cast includes:

Margie (an heiress if she wins the Cecilian Medal)	Ellen Flory
Helen (Student at the Bowers Institute)	Marie Howell
Janis (Student at the Bowers Institute)	Mary Ellen Lynas
Sophia (Student at the Bowers Institute)	Agnes Howell
Madam Raphael (Director of Bowers Institute of Art)	Ruth Kline
Madam X	Christina Wilson
Madam Y	Frances Wilson
Madam Z	Mary King

Convocations

School convocations are held in the assembly about every two weeks. The upper six grades take turns sponsoring the programs. These programs include talks by local and out-of-town speakers, picture shows, plays, class room demonstrations, comedy stunts and many other features. These programs are always appreciated and the students enjoy participating both as actors and audience.

School Carnival

The New Waverly High School held their Hallowe'en Carnival October 31, 1939, at the Auditorium and Gymnasium. The Carnival started at 7:00 P. M. with a masked parade. Those winning prizes were Charles Barker, Eileen, Vernon and Marylen Bowman, and Calvin Kitchel. After the parade they had the crowning of the Carnival Queen at 7:20. The Queen was Betty Parish, a Sophomore. Her attendants were Agnes Howell, a Senior, and Ellen Flory, a Sophomore. Betty was crowned by the King, Charles Barker, who is a Senior. The Queen presided over the Minstrel given by the boys' glee club.

After the Minstrel was over everyone was invited to the gym, where there were various kinds of events, such as Basket Ball Throw, Bingo, Cake Walk, Spill the Milk, Penny Toss, Confetti, Wishing Well, Fish Pond, Canning Sales. The Most Popular Man was Charles Barker. The public responded admirably, and judging from finances, people liked our efforts.

The committee in charge of the festival was: Mrs. Bolton, chairman, Mr. Oldridge, Miss Barker. Mr. Melton, principal, directed activities.
